Now it's AOL again muddying the waters! This company, one of which I use for my Internet uses, should get on with their business and stop whining about the success of Microsoft. Microsoft has done more for the high tech industry, and created more job opportunities than all of the other tech companies combined. It's a waste of the DOJ's resources to hear these issues.

Let Microsoft get on with the business they know best, developing the necessary software that ALL of use, in one form or another. Our country was built on invisionaries that had a dream, and carried that dream to fulfillment! LEAVE MICROSOFT TO THEIR BUSINESS!
